ABOUT ME

Hi, my name is Chi Zhang, as known as Violet too. I'm originally from China and a resident of NZ now.

My passion for the field of software development stems from a deep fascination with technology and its potential to drive innovation and transform industries. I'm really excited to explore the possibility of shifting from my current role as a teacher to this challenging industry.

I have a diverse academic background, which has honed my ability to adapt quickly, communicate effectively, and collaborate with diverse teams.
